DISCLAIMER

The final colour of your vinyl record may slightly vary from your initial choice out of the colour catalogue. Please keep in mind that even with re-orders of the same pressing the actual outcome may slightly vary as it depends on the current batch of vinyl granulate and many other factors.

This colour catalogue and the images it contains, whether viewed on a screen or in printed form, do not represent accurate colours. Pantone colour references are provided as a general guideline only and should not be considered an exact match. For reliable colour selection, we always recommend comparing your choice with a physical colour sample.

TECHNICAL SPECIFICATIONS FOR COLOURED VINYL

Coloured vinyl is produced using materials different from traditional black vinyl, which may result in slight variations in sound quality. You might experience a subtle background noise or occasional static clicks, especially in quieter parts of the recording, as well as in areas like the lead-in, lead-out, and crossover grooves.

Metallic-coloured vinyl, such as our "gold metallic," contains reflective particles that can contribute to additional surface noise. Similarly, transparent and light-coloured vinyl presents unique challenges in quality control, as imperfections are more difficult to detect, even under magnification. Additionally, vinyl colours may appear different depending on factors such as lighting conditions, background contrast, opacity, and record weight.

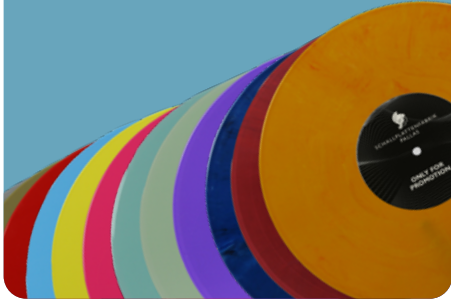

All sample images are taken from standard 12" records. For 7", 10" or heavyweight 12" pressings, the appearance may vary. We strive to maintain the highest quality standards in coloured vinyl production while embracing the unique characteristics that make each pressing one of a kind.

SURCHARGES & MIXTURES FOR SPECIAL PRESSINGS

As special pressings are handcrafted, smaller irregularities must be accepted. Depending on the used batch of vinyl granulate even reorders can have a slightly different look than the previous one. On some more elaborate versions there is a surcharge of 30 % to 80% on the base costs for special pressings. If there is an additional splatter colour beyond the first one additional costs will be charged. Please make sure to indicate the version of the special pressing including your chosen vinyl colours in your purchasing order.
